

WESTCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

It's a Natural Partnership

The library has always encouraged its patrons to explore new worlds. The "newest" world is right in your own back yard, literally. The Westchester Public Library is thinking outside of the "library box" and expanding into the great outdoors. We are now loaning "Adventure Backpacks." To get you started, each of these backpacks contains county-wide maps and trail guides of the nearly 94,000 acres of forest preserves in Cook and DuPage counties. You will also find laminated pocket guides of the plants, birds and wildlife of Illinois, as well as two pair of binoculars, one for adults and one (Kidnoculars) for children. Once you have selected your destination(s), all you need to supply is the sun-screen, some water, good walking shoes and a spark of curiosity.

Our sturdy backpacks are just as appropriate for solo strolls in the prairie as they are for family outings to the Morton Arboretum. Perhaps you will want to start small. This is your opportunity to look closely at that curious plant in your yard. Pull out the binoculars, look at the handy guide, and voila--you now know the common and botanical names of the former mystery plant. Don't be surprised when you continue to identify other plants, then trees, and begin wondering what is that beautiful yellow songbird up in my gleditsia triacanthos (a.k.a. honey locust)? Soon thereafter you will want to expand beyond your address, so, visit the library's various gardens. There is an ever-changing prairie garden spreading across the front of the building. While you are enjoying the flora be sure to take a gander at the bird feeders on the west end of this garden. From late spring to early fall watch for the frequent ruby-throated visitors to our hummingbird feeder. For year round entertainment there is a seed feeder. Chickadees, wrens and cardinals are frequent diners to this local attraction. To the west of the library are three discovery gardens, please explore. The first contains prairie plants native to the Westchester area, the second is filled with seasonings and herbs (not for consumption, though), and the third is brimming with butterfly attracting blooms. Take pleasure in the colorful array of plants that greet you. Look, smell, and breathe deep. While we request you sketch or take "only pictures" of plants elsewhere, we encourage you to pinch a leaf or flower off one of our plants in the discovery gardens. Take your sample into the children's department to have a really close look through one of our microscopes.

For the occasional inclement weather or when our Adventure Backpacks are checked out, we have a wonderful selection of nature books, such as Mike MacDonald's My Journey into the Wilds of Chicago, with vibrant color photos of nature's best. Maybe try a nature DVD. I recommend "Hummingbirds, Magic in the Air," or the PBS film, "An Original DUCKumentary." Explore, discover, enjoy!
